UNIVERSITY CORNER

The second intercollegiate debate of the season will be held Wednesday, when the Sooners will meet Tulane University of New Orleans.

The subject of the debate will be: "Resolved, that a federal law should be passed providing for the compulsory arbitration of any disputes arising between employers and employees on the railways."

The debaters representing Oklahoma are John McCoy Campbell and Joe Koch. Nothing is known of the strength of the Tulane debaters, but the above named men have had considerable experience in debate and the Sooners are confident of victory.

Following this contest, two weeks later, Oklahoma will meet Missouri University at Columbia with the same subject on the same evening.

Another Oklahoma debating team will meet Texas at Norman. Thus far, Oklahoma has lost one debate and won one.

Election of officers of the Y. M. C. A. was held Wednesday. Every office was hotly contested. W. J. Holleman was elected president of the association by a small majority of three votes over his opponent.

The other officers elected are: Ray M. Bales, vice-president; Harold Sanders, secretary, and J. D. Cox, treasurer.

Dean H. S. Browne returned last week from a visit to Columbia University at New York City and Philadelphia. College at Philadelphia.

Professor Browne is dean of the school of pharmacy and attended a meeting at Washington to aid in securing the passage of the Edmonds bill. He reported that he found the school of pharmacy of the University of Oklahoma just as well equipped as the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, which is the oldest in the United States.

He added that next year will find the Oklahoma University pharmacy school even better equipped than the Philadelphia college. Because the Philadelphia college is 120 years old it has been able to acquire a splendid museum of historical pharmaceutical apparatus.

Seventy engineering students made the trip to Oklahoma City Wednesday to inspect the sewerage system and the new waterworks plant. Oklahoma City claims to have one of the best sanitary drainage and sewer systems in the United States and the first-hand inspection by the engineers was an extremely fortunate opportunity.

They were given the opportunity to see and examine the new plant being installed. The dam and works in general are equipped with the most modern apparatus and appliances and the students were able to view their working from a practical standpoint.

Several of the state agents for large insurance companies will address the class in insurance on practical problems of the business, according to Professor Robb, acting director of the school of public and private business. Professor Robb is preparing an elaborate program for his insurance class. The purpose of the program is to have the class get the practical problems and methods of salesmanship from men who have made a success of the business. The class will possibly hear one man each week on some phase of the insurance business.

C. L. Byrne was a visitor at the university last Monday. He was the guest of his son, Cassius Byrne.

The frame building used by the domestic science department of the university and the junior high school was threatened by fire Tuesday, but only slight damage resulted. Spontaneous combustion in oil soaked rags and brushes, used by the janitor for cleaning purposes, is believed to have been the cause for the blaze. Great damage was done by water. Every room in the rear half of the building was water-soaked. Volunteer fighters from the university reduced the loss greatly. This fire was the third to occur at the university this year, but no great damage has resulted from any of them.

Pupils in chemistry 130, which is oil analysis, went to Oklahoma City last week to inspect the natural gas-gasoline plants near there. Data was gathered by the pupils for tests to be made to acquaint them with the operation and designs of gasoline plants.

The Easter holidays at the university began Thursday at 5:30 and will continue until Monday. The Misses Ann Anderson, Ruby Gwinn, Madeline Colbert, Gladys Seavall, Margaret Cherry and Henry Porter, Cassius Byrne, Salmon Williams and Felix Rodovitz are spending the holidays at Ardmore.

James Boone is spending the holidays in Sapulpa.
